And, on his appearance in the Theatre will be open all the following nights that week, (except Sunday.) His first character will be SHEVA, in Mr Cumberland's charming Comedy of the JEW.

ried more than twelve months, and Mrs Adamson is pregnant; this circumstance (added to the candour of Adamson's conduct) has induced the Directors to bestow their bounty on her and Mr Adamson, and they have in consequence given 15l. to the lady, for her present purposes, and 10l. to Adamson, who is now fully committed to Newgate.

It appears, that Adamson's stock in trade amounts to nearly twenty thousand pounds, the whole of which is made over to trustees, in satisfaction of the demands that may hereafter be made upon his estate. It appears that Roworth has materially participated in the guilt; he filled up most of the bills, and was in various ways instrumental in their negotiation; Kavana has been engaged in the same way; Wilkinson has uttered many of the bills, knowing them to be forged; and Adamson has been the person who has actually committed the forgery.

Mr Dundas has written to all the Lords Lieutenants of Counties, desiring a return of the Supplementary Cavalry, and their opinions respecting them. We believe that the general answer has been—that they would not doubt form a very serviceable and efficient corps, if properly disciplined and exercised. Accordingly, they are to be called out without delay.

The bustle occasioned in the Home Department, respecting the embodying of the different corps of defence, is truly astonishing. Saturday upwards of sixty dispatches were sent from Mr Dundas's office to the Lord Lieutenants of counties, and commanders of corps in England; and very late the Secretaries and Clerks were busily employed in making up dispatches for other parts of England and Scotland.

Letters from Rennes lay, a general embargo is laid on all vessels to obtain seamen for the expedition against England; and preparations for the invasion of this country seem to be carried on with their usual spirit.

The conduct of the French towards the Swifs deserves the execrations of all mankind, and of none more than the friends of genuine social freedom. It was (it is said) some time ago, that an Address, signed by three hundred of the most illiterate and obscure individuals in this metropolis was found on some of the persons in custody; and that this Address, tho' it contained satisfactory proof that disaffection had not arisen to any alarming height, yet was extremely seditious and inflammatory. It is said that Ministers have traced its production to Mr Crossfield.

A Committee of the Scotch Lowland Distillers is arrived in London, to promote an application to Parliament for a clause being inserted in the new distillery bill, to prevent the working of stills on Sunday.

The voluntary subscription at the Bank on Saturday, exclusive of country remittances, amounted to about 3000l. The Exchange contribution was proportionally small. The Sun Fire Office, by their Secretary, Mr Watts, during the week, gave 5000l.

At Bristol, Coventry, and some other places, Quakers have subscribed to the voluntary contributions, not regarding the measure as tending to the continuance of the war, but as enabling the Government to afford protection.

CORN EXCHANGE, March 19.

We had very little wheat here to-day, except from Essex and Kent, and the supply from thence was not large, notwithstanding which the sale was rather dull, except for fine white samples, which went off at full as high prices as last Monday.

Barley is 6d. per quarter dearer, as but little appears still; if, however, a moderate supply was to come in, it would certainly check prices.

Malt must be noted the same; but the sale is less brisk than last week.

As but few Oats, either foreign or coastwise, are arrived fresh, there was a tolerable free sale for Fine Corn, at 6d. per quarter, and other sorts were dull. Beans and Peas nearly the same as in my list.

EDINBURGH—MARCH 22.

[FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.]

HOUSE OF COMMONS, March 19.

Mr WILBERFORCE put off his motion respecting the slave trade to to-morrow 5 o'clock.

On the motion of Mr BRYAN EDWARDS, accounts of the quantity of coffee raised in the West India Islands, for the last seven years, and the quantity of coffee exported from Great Britain, during the same period, were ordered.

ADDITIONAL TAXATION.

Mr PITT rose to move the House to resolve into a Committee on the report on the watchmakers petitions. He proposed, that any discussion on the subject should be delayed until Wednesday, before which the scale of proportion for the window lights would be printed.

His plan consisted of a consolidation of the assessed taxes, and an augmentation of the window light duties. On windows, houses, servants, and carriages, he proposes to raise 186,000l. in addition to the present duties; little or nothing on dogs and horses, excepting what may be necessary to prevent fractions in the collection; and on a certain description of inhabited houses, 12,000l.

These sums, with the effect of the consolidation and small additions on the other assessed taxes, in order to prevent fractions, would amount altogether to about 205,000l. He should only move the resolutions to day.

The first resolution was, that the duties on inhabited houses do cease, and determine.

The titles of the other resolutions were read pro forma, and the report ordered to be received to-morrow.

Died on the 17th of March at Kings-Mills, near Inverness, Mr GEORGE BEAN, writer there, at an advanced age.

Died at Peterhead, on the 11th inst. aged 65, Mr JOHN AIKEN, Supervisor of Excise, very justly esteemed, and most sincerely regretted by all his acquaintances.

Died at Melville Castle, on Monday last, in the 92d year of her age, Mrs ANN GORDON, relict of the Right Honourable Robert Dundas of Arncliffe, Lord President of the Court of Session.

Miss PENELOPE MACDONALD, second daughter of the deceased John Macdonald Kinier, Esq. died here the 18th inst.

On Tuesday next the 27th inst. there will be an Assembly at Leith, being the last for this season; to which will be admitted, by particular desire of many members, the children and relations of subscribers, between the ages of ten and sixteen, to dance in sets by themselves.

Ladies tickets, and tickets for the children, to be had of the members. Gentlemen's tickets issued at the shop of Mr WILLIS, Leith, on producing an order from a subscriber. No tickets given out, or money taken at the door.—The dancing to begin at half past six.

STRANGE'S BALL, on Friday, was held at the great Assembly Rooms. The crowd of youth, beauty, family, and fashion was as splendid as usual, and the performances of the scholars seemed to surpass all we had seen before, and did honour to their meritorious master.

On Wednesday evening, the Rev. Mr GEORGE ALLAN, was admitted by the Presbytery of Aberdeen, colleague and successor to the Rev. Dr Brown, Minister of Newhills.

The second battalion of Sir JOHN SINCLAIR's regiment, now serving in Ireland, have contributed 200l. to the Voluntary Subscription.

On Thursday passed by Aberdeen, the Greenland fleet from Hull, &c. consisting of 23 vessels, under convoy of the Proserpine frigate.

During Mr ELLISTON's engagement in Edinburgh, we hope the Manager will open Mr COLEMAN'S "Iron Chest."—It is a play that has excited great curiosity—first, on account of its having been professedly taken from the celebrated novel of "Caleb Williams," which has been universally read and approved—and secondly, as it is the only play that ever was condemned, and afterwards supported by the London audience. It was filled in the bud at Drury Lane, but was recovered by the efforts of the Humane Society at the Haymarket, where Mr Elliston gave the first proofs of his excellence in his art, as this favourite banding of its father's brain was retorted to public favour chiefly by his exertions, in the character of Sir Edward Mortimer.

For a week past we have had repeated falls of hail and snow, with colder weather than we had in January, which will retard vegetation.

A market was held at Gifford, East Lothian, on Tuesday the 20th inst. for the sale of sheep and cattle, when a considerable number of both, particularly great ewes, were exposed. The sheep were almost all sold off, and at good prices: The cattle, from its being the first market held there at this season, had few purchasers; those, however, which were sold, also brought good prices.—This annual market appears highly calculated for the mutual convenience of both buyers and sellers.

PASSAVAN OGLOU, who is perhaps defined from his career of success to change the face of the Ottoman Empire, was born at Franckfort on the Mein. During the seven years war, he served as a dragoon under FREDERICK II. by whom he was honoured with the Cross of Merit, which he still wears about his neck. He is at present about 60 years of age; he has a long grey beard, which gives him a very venerable air; and, notwithstanding his severe discipline, he is much beloved by his army. The troops under his command are 200,000 men, who have by this time penetrated into Bosnia.

DUBLIN, March 17.

Orders were yesterday given for Messrs JACKSONS, EMMET, BOND, SWEETMAN, McNEVIN, and the persons taken in committee at Bond's house, to be confined in separate apartments in the goal of Kilmainham.

The heroic ARTHUR O'CONNOR, according to letters from London, offered to give information against his Irish accomplices in the acts of treason with which he stands charged. The letters add, that Government refused to admit him as King's evidence, being already in possession of very ample information.

We are sorry to hear that the fugitive Lord ED. FITZGERALD has yet escaped the pursuit of the messenger sent after him. He had only left Newry half an hour before the messenger arrived there, and having struck into the north-west road towards Armagh, he is supposed to have concealed himself in the deserted morasses of the Fews Mountain.

Yesterday morning, about four o'clock, the house of CH. FARRAN, Esq. at Rathmines, within two miles of Dublin, was entered by a number of persons armed who not being opposed, as the family were resident in town, and the gardener attempting no resistance, proceeded to the room in which a poor carter of Mr FARRAN's slept, attacked the unhappy man in his bed, pierced his body with innumerable wounds, and fired several shots into his head and heart. The miserable creature was deprived of life on the instant, and his body left an object of horror, which even the barbarians who murdered him could not have viewed without emotion. When the butchery had been completed, the villains, in the wantonness of malice, broke open every door in the house, although they did not commit any act of plunder, farther than taking one gun from one of the bedchambers, and a small quantity of wine from the cellar; yet, in the short time they staid, every possible act of destruction short of firing the house was committed.

The unhappy object of their malice was a harmless, inoffensive, poor man, against whom his murderers could have had no cause of enmity than that which we understand were avowed by them, during the perpetration of their barbarity, "that he was an Orange man."

The most diligent search has been made by Mr FARRAN's friends and family to discover the murderers; and we are pleased to hear, with such success, that one of the gang has been already apprehended, and turned over; that, from his information, the treacherous gardener, who admitted the villains, and, as it should seem, invited them to the attack, has been secured; and that several others implicated in this act of savage barbarity are likely to meet immediate detection, and merited punishment.

STRADEALLY (Dunfermline County.)

"Lord PORTARLINGTON's house was attacked a few nights ago, but the villains were beaten off by the servants, and some of them, it is supposed from the quantity of blood that appeared, must have been severely wounded. One man has been taken, in consequence of a sledge left behind proving to be his."

"We were alarmed in our beds here last night, by a messenger from the Widow DODD, of Moyanna, for the army; a party of villains attacked the house, broke in, demanded money, and finding none, they beat Mrs DODD cruelly on the head and arms with a horse-pistol; they got up stairs into the room where a Mr and Mrs RICHARDSON from Athy were in bed; they took his watch and some silver; went down again, got whiskey and wine, which they took out to the garden and drank there; shortly after they returned to Mr RICHARDSON's room, called him an Orange Rascal, and put the muzzle of a gun to his side; upon which Mr R. jumped up in bed, placed a pillow near the gun, kept his eye on the trigger, and when he saw the assassin going to pull it, he drew himself a little aside, and most of the shot entered the pillow. He is but slightly wounded, and now able to walk about. The villains concluding they had finished him, departed. Mrs RICHARDSON was unhurt; the pillow saved her. It is yet uncertain whether Mrs DODD's skull is not fractured; she continues very ill. This is the second attack on her house; on a former visit it was plundered of fire-arms."

"Tuesday, Mr BEVER's house was attacked for arms both by horse and foot people, who fired one shot, and did no other damage but frightening the children. Mr and Mrs B. are in Dublin. Yesterday morning as some sheep belonging to Mr GREENE, were on the road going to Dublin, a parcel of people stopped them; killed two, and wounded two more so much, that they died since. He every night expects to be attacked. Mr DARRACH is much better, and there are great hopes of his recovery."

The following are the particulars of the horrid murder committed on Mr THOMAS BUCKLEY, of Black Church, in the county of Kildare:

About the hour of nine o'clock on Thursday night last, as Mr BUCKLEY was returning from Rathcoole to his residence at Black Church, he was attacked by a desperate banditti of ruffians, within a mile and a half of his house, who discharged several shots at him, the contents of which lodged in his body and arms; they fractured his forehead, cut off one of his cheeks, and knocked out one of his eyes; the force of a blow of one of their guns funk the cock and flint thereof into his skull, which broke therein, they also cut off some of his fingers; he received so many cuts and wounds in his head and face, that his features were totally disfigured. After they had effected their murderous purpose, they dragged him from the ditch into a fallow field, and then they left him without having taken his money, his watch, or any thing he had about him. Near the mangled body was found a bayonet marked with the letter A, and numbered 48, also an iron ramrod of a gun.—There cannot as yet be any reason assigned for this abominable murder, as Mr BUCKLEY was a man who bore a most unblemished character in the country, and had two sons in Colonel Wolfe's yeomanry troop. It is hoped when the necessary documents relative to this atrocious crime shall be laid before Government, they will please to issue a proclamation, offering a reward for the apprehension and conviction of the offenders.

We have to add to this dreadful list of murder, that of Mr BURKEILL, of Kilske, county Kildare, steward to John Wolfe, Esq. Colonel of the militia of that county.

To the COMMITTEE to receive Subscriptions for the NATIONAL DEFENCE.

Gentlemen, I beg leave to transmit to your Committee, the Subscription of a few Catholics, residing in Edinburgh, towards the aid of Government in the present exigencies of the State. They sincerely regret, that the smallness of their number, and the narrowness of their circumstances, do not permit them to assist their Country in the manner they would wish. If several of the more opulent members of their Community had not already subscribed in their individual capacity, they would have been able to offer something more decent. The more they regret, is only the more of the poor; but they hope it will be accepted of, as an earnest of their inviolable attachment to the person of our most gracious Sovereign, and to the present Government and Constitution of their Country.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, Your very humble and obedient Servant,

BLACK PRIORS WYND, } ALEX. CAMERON.

"SIR, I have the honour of receiving your Letter of the 10th ult. which I should have answered sooner, but delayed it, till I saw how subscribers came forward.

"At the paper I hold, there are names for L. 1181: 9s.—the first of which is the town of Dundee for L. 600, and I am just now informed that our Provost this day remits that sum to David Scott, Esq. to be paid into the Bank of England.—There are several papers opened in town for Subscriptions, but at present I know not what is done upon them. I remain, with great respect, Your's, &c.

To the Right Hon. THOS. ELDER, } RO. JOHNSON."

SIR, Your favours of the 2th inst. signed also by his Grace the Duke of Buccleuch, came duly to hand the same I this day laid before our Magistrates and Town Council, and they unanimously voted that the Town's funds, One Hundred Guineas, for which their Treasurer has by appointment signed a subscription paper, mentioning that sum payable at the Bank of Scotland's Office here, the 1st day of June next, this sum is a full half of our yearly revenue, but we think it well bestowed. The Members of Council considering the circumstances of the place, have come liberally forward, and I have lodged the paper in our Town Clerk's Office,

The Members of Council considering the circumstances of the place, have come liberally forward, and I have lodged the paper in our Town Clerk's Office, and made public intimation by beat of drum, intimating to all concerned they will there meet with attendance for them to subscribe. I have also recommended it to our Dean of Guild and Deacons, Conventors of our Trades, to call a meeting, in order to see what they will subscribe, and as soon as any thing is done, I shall advise you. I heartily wish our investors, especially may be distinguished, and I have the honour to be very respectfully, Your most obedient and humble Servant,

To the Right Hon. the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, JOHN SMITH, Provost.

DUNDEE 13th March, 1798.

At a Meeting of the Officers of the 65th Regiment, it was unanimously agreed to subscribe a Week's Pay each, as a Voluntary Contribution to Government, towards the support of the war. I herewith inclose an Address from the Non-Commissioned Officers and Privates of the regiment, to you on the occasion of a week's pay. Which address I hope you will think proper to present to Lieutenant General Sir ROBERT ABERCROMBY, K. B. as a token of the loyalty and patriotic spirit of the regiment.

I have the honour to be Your most obedient servant, GEORGE MADISON, Maj. 65th Regt.

COLONEL JOHNSTON, 65th Regt. Edin.

(COPY)

The non-commissioned Officers, Drummers, and Private Men of his Majesty's 65th Regiment of Foot, to Colonel BOUTER JOHNSON, Lieutenant-Colonel commanding the above Regiment.

SIR,

The very laudable example set before us by you, and the whole of the Officers of the regiment to which we have the honour to belong, in contributing a Week's Pay towards supporting the spirited and well-directed exertions of Government, has been received by us with those feelings of pleasure and admiration which patriotic actions ever excite in the minds of men who love their country. And to show that so good an example has not failed of effect, to evince our gratitude for the paternal care and beneficence of our most gracious Sovereign in the recent increase of our pay, and finally to convince the disaffected, that soldiers are determined to assist, and not only by military exertions, but by contributing a part of their income in defending the laws and liberty of their country.—We have unanimously agreed to contribute ONE WEEK'S PAY each in aid of the measures pursued by Government to defeat the base and reprobated attempts of our implacable enemy to destroy the Constitution and laws of this kingdom, under which we, in common with all our countrymen, enjoy a degree of liberty and prosperity unequalled and envied by surrounding nations.

Signed, in the name of the whole non-commissioned Officers, Drummers, and Private Men,

DUNDEE, } WILLIAM HINDE, Sergeant Major

UPSET PRICE REDUCED.
GARVOCK—KINCARDINESHIRE.
To be SOLD by Public Roup, within the house of John Two-dale, vintner in Montrose, upon Friday the 30th day of March 1798, betwixt the hours of four and six o'clock afternoon.
THE ESTATE OF GARVOCK, in the parish of Garvock, and county of Kincardine, which belonged to the deceased David Scott, Esq. of Nether Benholm, containing upwards of 2250 acres Scotch measure, and at present remarkably low rented, being only 503l. 9s. 11d. Herby yearly, after deducting minifter's stipend and schoolmaster's salary.
Garvock is about eight miles from Montrose, lying betwixt the valuable districts called the Howe of the Means and the Coast-side. The new roads to be immediately made thro' the property, opening an improved communication betwixt the coast and inland parts of the country, will greatly add to its value. The soil has amply repaid for any improvements made upon it. There are lime quarries in the neighbourhood. The tenants are thriving, and part of the estate now in regular train of melioration. The wastes may be profitably employed in planting. The valued rent, being nearly 1300l. Scots, affords three freehold qualifications.
If not sold in whole, it is proposed (either on the above an after day) to sell it in the following lots:

Lot I.	Arable	A. R. F.	Pasture	A. R. F.	Rent
Mill of Garvock,	34	0 21	35	3 19	49 20
Upper Tulloch,	172	3 36	204	1 28	54 76
Nether Tulloch,	65	2 19	134	0 24	30 00
	272	2 36	474	1 31	133 96
Lot II.
Ravenshall,	144	2 23	165	0 37	48 00
Redford,	171	2 26	138	0 37	143 94
	316	1 9	303	1 34	191 94
Lot III.
Bridgton,	232	2 3	435	2 37	128 00
Craig,	112	2 16	151	3 32	59 40
	344	0 21	587	2 29	187 40

The above measurements are taken from plans of the different farms, of an old date, since which, many considerable portions of land, denominated pasture, are now brought under plough culture, and some hundred acres more may yet be improved in like manner.
The Mill of Garvock has a valuable thirlage upon the lands of neighbouring proprietors.
The above second and third lots (if sold in lots) are to continue affricht, only during currency of the present lease upon the Mill, and thereafter the thirlage affecting them to be discharged. Great part of lot III. is open at Whitunday first, the tacks upon the other parts vary in their currency, but none of them are of long duration.
Beside the above rents, the Mill of Garvock pays 20 bolls and a fraction of meal, and Ravenshall to bolls and a fraction of bear. These presently go for paying the vicinal stipend for the wharf estate, which, with the money, stipend, and schoolmaster's salary, will be properly applied upon the different lots in the articles of sale.
Those desiring further information, or to see plans of the different farms, &c. may apply to Alexander Burnett, Esq., of Strachan, Sheriff Depute of Kincardineshire; or Patrick O'N-Ely, of Bridgton, by Montrose, two of the trustees named by the deceased Mr Scott.
